Looks Like Neck and Neck Race in British Election

By DENNIS NEELD

LONDON (U) — Britain's Labor and Conservative parties roared into the final lap of their election battle today running neck and neck.

Public opinion polls showed the Laborites led by Hugh Gaitskell had dramatically closed the gap with Prime Minister Harold Mac-put Labor ahead 42½ per cent to 41.

When the campaign opened just over two weeks ago, the national opinion polls gave Labor little chance. The Conservatives' popularity then appeared sufficient to send them back with as big or bigger majority than the 52-seat margin they won in 1955. There

County Farm Bureau Urges Production Control Plan

The Logan County Farm Bureau, following its Policy Development kickoff meeting, urges the adoption of a farm plan to include a production control program to adjust production on the basis of a conservation approach with an incentive payment for conservation reserve based on a soil index.

The Logan bureau also urges that the Farm Bureau leaders on the national level work together with the leaders of other farm organizations and use their combined power to aid the farm situation.

The Logan County Farm Bureau states that it does not believe the present policies of the national Farm Bureau leaders represent the true thinking of a majority of members, and are in conflict with the welfare of American agriculture. It is therefore recommended that there be a change in leadership on the national level of the Farm Bureau organization.

The Logan County organization recommends that the name of the Illinois Agricultural Assn. be changed to Illinois State Farm Bureau, providing it can be done at the proper time, economically, and in such a manner to be feasible.

The Logan Farm Bureau also recommends the IAA adopt a resolution whereby a new membership classification be set up to take care of widows of retired farmer Farm Bureau members so that they may continue to have Farm Bureau benefits.

These policies and others following were formulated as a result of 29 meetings with a total of 245 Farm Bureau families attending during the last two months.

Other policies adopted and recommended include:

Inflation — the IAA adopt a policy to work in every way to curb inflation on every economic level.

State Income Tax — a limited flat rate state income tax be adopted to replace personal property taxes and a portion of real estate taxes.

Taxes — real estate property be assessed at 55 per cent of actual fair cash value with fair cash value to be determined by earning power of property.

Assessment of Motor Vehicles — a law be passed whereby a person must present a paid receipt for personal property taxes before that person may receive an auto license.

Water Resources and Rights of Use — the IAA adopt a resolution to support the State Legislature in a study of water use working toward legislation of a water use act.

Milk Market Situation — the IAA seek a way to strengthen the Dairy Cooperative Marketing structure.

Extension of Packers and Stockyard Act — that the act be extended to cover individuals such as country traders, farmers, etc.

MAN OF MONTH:

Grant Heatherwick One of Logan's 'Fathers of Journalism'

By John J. Swingle

It is only fitting that the Courier Man of the Month for October be revealed earlier than usual, also very timely that one of the "fathers" of American journalism be chosen for the occasion. Grant Heatherwick of Middletown, and the occasion, National Newspaper Week, Oct. 15-21, go hand in hand.

Heatherwick is embarking on his second half-century as a newspaperman with many fond, and sometimes sad memories, to accompany him.

Not quite a year ago the aging gentleman was the subject of much activity in the village of Middletown, literally "having his day." The citizens of the community gathered together to celebrate Nov. 12 as Grant Heatherwick Day was proclaimed. Given Service Award

The celebration commemorated the weekly editor's 50 years in the newspaper business, which is a long time for anyone. He received as one memorial, a "money tree," with 50 silver dollars attached. Also among his gifts were an electric blanket, and the American Legion award for distinguished public service.

Among his most prized possessions are letters from President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Vice President Richard Nixon, Gov. William G. Stratton, and Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter. These dignitaries provided an extra bright spot for Heatherwick with personal letters of congratulations and well-wishing.

Son of Soldier

Born on a farm about a mile south of Middletown Sept. 28, 1880, he is the son of James and Acenith Shields Heatherwick. His father was a Civil War soldier, whom Grant says was getting along in years when he joined the army.

Heatherwick attended the former Elm Grove school, since gone and now a part of the Middletown district, through the ninth grade.

The Heatherwick family built a new home in Middletown in Grant's earlier years. He says "One of the architects was J. M. Deal from Lincoln who later worked on the Logan County Courthouse. I still remember my mother cooking up dinners for the carpenters and my sister and I carrying them out in a washbasket." Heatherwick still lives in that house. His mother died in 1929.

"One of my teachers when I was in school is still living in Middletown," reports Grant. "Mrs. A. H. Burton was my teacher 60 years ago. She's about 87 now."

He Stomped Hay

Heatherwick says he used to do odd jobs for others when he got out of school. "Sometimes I'd work for 10 cents an hour cleaning yards. During the hay harvest I did the hot and disagreeable job of tromping hay." Grant says he spent one summer in Mason County as a clerk in a store owned by A. M. Dare.

When he became 21, Grant says he inherited some money, not a lot, and along with others invested in the Middletown Coal Co. For a number of years he was employed as a clerk and bookkeeper there.

"The company didn't prosper though and collapsed, bringing disaster and bankruptcy to a number of prominent people," says the Man of the Month.

Pastor Was Editor

miles a day out there," says Grant.

"He said he got to feeling pretty good and started back for his home via California, New Mexico, and other places. About 1910, in March, he arrived back in Middletown, and to his newspaper.

"I felt like I wanted to do the work then," relates Grant. "Before, it was just more of a pastime."

Even now, as in the early days of the paper, women do much of the type-setting for articles. Heatherwick does most of the mechanical work of running the press which is the original Diamond press there when he took over. "It was a second-hand press then," says Grant.

Powered by Crank

It has no power except a crank. Heatherwick says he used to get a janitor from the school or someone else to turn the crank for him, usually paying them about 50 cents in those days.

Things seemed to look up for him then. "The subscription list kept growing, I did job work, and for some time conducted an editorial department." He says he doesn't write editorials now, except occasionally.

There have been a number of girls help the Man of the Month set type, among those Mrs. S. B. Coningham, and Mrs. Homer Brown. Mrs. Vina Davison is the compositor for him now, having been working there about 15 years.

"I found it easy to criticize,

he wasn't put here to remedy human ailments.

His Faces Trouble

Grant says that this trial most got him in trouble time. He had been openly criticizing rowdiness, drunks, and then happened to be walking along the street in front of a loon. Two husky brothers just "finished off" a couple victims who were prone in the street, when one of them grabbed him. They let him go, threats, after a while. He the next morning he saw a torney, Evan Worth, who became state's attorney in coin, and set up a peace bond.

Having been a member of Methodist church for 50 years received a citation, along other honors, at the huge celebration in his honor last year.

One of the remarkable things about Heatherwick and his paper is that it is one of a few handset papers left.

Dotes on Boys

One of the favorite pastimes of the old master is boys. He to be a Boy Scout leader was a Sunday school teacher many years. Many times he taken groups of boys can "I've taken boys to Chanute Force Base at Rantoul, Field at Belleville, Starved in Pontiac prison, and even to York." At Scott Field Heatherwick says a squad of soldiers put up tents for them, at the trip to Pontiac, the band serenaded them.

It was 1926 when Grant, Townsend, and Lynn Dug started for New York and points of interest in a motor. The trip lasted three days and took the trio through eastern states and Canada. got crooks in our necks to up at the tall buildings in York," relates Heatherwick.

Having been cleaned out three times, Heather admits he was "never skill finances." The first time it the coal mine, and on another occasion he invested in wor mortgages.

His Fall Recalled

Heatherwick has had a lot of close calls. When he was building a brick building on the street from his present home he fell 12 feet from the top wall to a false floor. "I look as I was falling and all I see was the wheel barrow been pushing coming down on me." The editor recalls luckily one of the other workers caught the barrow by its handle. "I came out of that without a scratch," says Grant.

He was in a bad auto wreck the "Four Corners" near Lincoln in 1955. A truck smashed his car as he was making a turn.

However, the Man of the Month for October is still going strong and it appears it won't be of an effort for him to put the Middletown Ledger for other 50 years.

Perhaps his ready smile and vigor at his age may be attributed to his own philosophy. "I live from day to day as I can, and do not worry about about Marshall. Two newspapers said the deletion was at the request of McCarthy.

Spokesmen for Eisenhower and McCarthy denied it at the time. Two years later, former Republican Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin, in a news conference, said it was he who urged the deletion because he believed that praise of a man under attack by McCarthy would hurt the party.

The tempest was still going on in 1953. Truman said then that he gave Eisenhower hell in the 1952 campaign because Eisenhower didn't throw Jenner off a speaking platform for calling Marshall a traitor, as Truman put it.

"Too Much Sense" At a White House news conference, Eisenhower replied that he had "too much sense to waste my time getting mad at anybody." And he added he had made known his admiration for Marshall as a great man.

Then on Jan. 14 this year, during a talk to the National Press Club, Eisenhower spoke of "my almost veneration, in many ways, of General Marshall."

Importance, Potential of Junior Colleges Outlined

Junior college officials of Illinois, meeting at Lincoln College for the fall conference of the Illinois Ass. of Junior Colleges, Friday night heard Dr. G. Ross Henninger, president of the Ohio College of Applied Science, say that "The junior colleges of America, with 635 such institutions operating across the country, are in a position of strategic importance and potential with respect to the expanding need for educational capacity in the zones of engineering and other technologies."

Seventy administrators from 23 Illinois junior colleges heard the Ohio educator, who heads one of the oldest and best known technical training institutions in the country, at a dinner in the college dining hall.

Henninger pointed out that, historically, engineering had moved from the dream and idea field into limited and often spectacular practical application and then into widespread general use. He pointed to the Wright brothers and the airplane as an example in this century; where a whole great industry, calling for thousands of skilled technologists at every level, had developed from one flimsy, handmade machine into an important military weapon first and then into our largest means of human transportation.

Pointing out that expanding civilian economy needs technicians, quite apart from dramatic defense needs as exemplified by the missile and satellite field, Henninger showed how community colleges could fill much of the need at the practical application level—below the "dream" plateau, but above the "unskilled level" in the area where most of the world's products are made and where the machines of the world are kept running.

The speaker emphasized that "The collective junior college is not automatically qualified merely by virtue of its existence to enter this area of technological education." He continued by recounting the careful studies and preparation that were necessary for a successful technical program at the junior college level and to give pointers on measuring the needs and probable effectiveness of such programs, particularly in industrial centers. Discussed by Panel.

The afternoon sessions of the conference included a panel discussion of administrative problems led by Robert Birkhimer, junior college consultant in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction; a report on nurses' training in a junior college program, given by Dean Kenneth Edwards and students of Belleville Junior College, and a discussion of technical and terminal curricula by President Harold Rodas of Bradley University.

Today's sessions were divided between an administrator's business meeting and six student sections on varied student activities. More than 100 students took part in the student sections.

Dr. Raymond Dooley, president of the host college, is also president of the association.

WON'T TALK

If cats could only talk, it might not be difficult for Lincoln authorities to discover who it was that broke into Charlie Clark's Sinclair station on the route 66 bypass. There were several cats in the station at the time of the burglary, but none could give a clue as to identity of the thieves.

The station was entered sometime Friday morning before opening time by breaking out a south rear window.

Two cigarette machines were broken open with an undetermined amount of cigarettes missing along with approximately $100 in cash. Lincoln police investigated.

west suburban railway which once served 300,000 residents again failed Friday. Four York Township trustees put off indefinitely establishment of a DuPage County Transit Authority designed to revive the electric line.

To Collect for UNICEF Oct. 30

EMDEN—Judy Zimmer, Grace Bruns, Susannah Sharp and Sandra Lolling will be collecting for UNICEF Friday, Oct. 30 at Emden and Hartsburg. This project is being sponsored locally by the United Nations study classes of the Emden and Hartsburg Methodist churches. The United Nations Children's Fund was created to help provide these children with the medicine and milk they need for life and health.

UNICEF works with the governments of assisted countries, who add more than 2 dollars to every one that Unicef spends. The Children's Fund has cooperated with governments of more than 100 countries and territories to control diseases with antibiotics, mass vaccinations and DDT sprayings; combat malnutrition by providing powdered milk and finding new ways of supplying protein; improve mother and child care by helping to establish clinics, by educating mothers in hygiene and nutrition, by training nurses and midwives.

Six Die of C.M. Fumes

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) — A father and five of his six children were found dead in their home Sunday, victims of gas asphyxiation caused by a defective hot water heater.

Police said carbon monoxide fumes apparently filled the house while the father was heating water for the children's Saturday night baths.

A sixth child, 8 weeks old, was being cared for by relatives while the mother, Marguerite, 44, was in a hospital for treatment of varicose veins.

The victims were Frank Espinola, 60, a groundskeeper at Boston's American League baseball park; and Ronald, 14; Nancy, 12; Joseph, 9; Philip, 7, and Kenneth, 5.

Investigators Taken Trip Into Sierra

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The complicated legal case involving Larry Lord Motherwell, 43, and the elderly Washington, D.C., widow he is accused of killing opened today with a motor trip over a high Sierra pass.

Along the 35-mile route to Sierraville, a caravan carrying Motherwell, his attorney John T. Reges and Dist. Atty. Gordon I. Smith, passed the secluded spot where the remains of Pearl Putney, 72, were found last Aug. 16, covered with branches and leaves.

The men went to the home of Justice of the Peace Alden Johnson at Sierraville, just a wide spot in the road, for action on a preliminary hearing.

Smith originally requested the preliminary hearing but changed his mind and took the case directly to the Sierra County grand jury.

Maintains Innocence

Motherwell claims he is innocent and that he left Mrs. Putney in Las Vegas, Nev.

Eighteen witnesses were summoned to tell the 19 jurors what they know of Motherwell's and Mrs. Putney's cross-country trip—a junket that started from Wash-

Moyer Carmichael of California, and several nieces and nephews. His parents and two brothers preceded him in death.

Services and burial were in Folsom.

Workers for Scouts Given $1,230 Here

Lincoln Boy Scout Fund Drive chairman Scott Crum today reported a total of $1230.00 received in the general solicitation section of the now almost completed 1959 campaign. Wednesday night workers collected $213.50 to add to the Tuesday night receipts of $998.60. All in all, according to Crum and District Executive Al Rutherford, more than 130 workers participated in the door-to-door canvass during the two evenings of the general campaign.

All indications now point to the drive reaching and exceeding the anticipated $5000 plus for which the local group has been working. A final report of income from the advance gifts section of the drive is not yet available but Crum reports that $3500 has actually been received with $350 outstanding in pledges and a few remaining calls expected to realize another $200. This would bring the drive to a final total of $5280.

Lower to Steady Prices Feature Week's Chicago Livestock Trade

CHICAGO — Slaughter cattle receipts continued to run heavy, and with the 15th Annual Chicago Feeder Cattle Show and Sale cattle receipts totaled in the neighborhood of 60,000 head for the week. Around 47,000 of these were fat cattle with the balance consisting of calves and yearlings.

There was a definite unevenness of distribution with respect to the slaughter receipts from day to day. Because of this and an only moderately active dressed beef trade, slaughter prices on steers of a high choice grade and below were fully 50 cents lower than last week's close. The better kinds, and cattle with weight, held steady and enjoyed a strong demand.

Move Past $129

Top price for high prime steers moved above $29, as one outstanding load of reputation show cattle topped at $29.25. Most all of the prime steers continued to sell from $28. to $28.75, with only the extreme weights of a high choice or prime grade selling down into the $27. column.

Top grade lighter yearling steers sold weak to 50 cents lower and now are cashing from $27.25 to $28., while at the same time the bulk of the steers of an average to high choice grade, over 1200 lbs., sold quite well from $27. to $28. with the top good to average choice steers cashing from $26. to $27.25. Some of the plainer low good and standard kinds also found a weaker market from $22.50 to $25.50 with utility and commercial steers pressure and a wide variance of prices from day to day was noted. The high for the week was $27. on outstanding high quality strictly prime heifers with high choice and prime kinds from $26.50 to $26.75. Most of the choice to high choice heifers sold mostly 25 to 50 cents lower for the week and closed from $24.50 to $25.75. Good and low choice kinds sold from $23. to $24.50. Plainer underfinished heifers cashed from $18. to $22.

Advances Erased

All the early week advances in cow prices were more than erased in the midweek trade. The closing demand was very narrow from $32. to $37.00. Bulls and vealers held steady while stockers and feeders were light in supply for sale, and most attention was being placed on the forthcoming feeder sale.

With the weather men bringing on a period of rainy skies and cooler temperatures, the movement of hogs to market stepped up sharply and the marked increase around the major market terminals, as well as Chicago, enabled the buying side to regain the upper hand in the fight for higher prices to the extent that hogs are closing mostly 50 cents lower than late last week. The best top light hogs, demonstrating a high percentage of lean cuts, topped early in the week at $13.75 only to fall down to $13.50 at the midweek point. With the weakening of the price spread between the lightweight and medium weight butchers, and a widening of the lambs strengthened the position of the selling side past week and enabled the to work the selling prices higher on the top quality. The bulk of the wools are clearing from $19. to and are of the strictly kind or better. The top for sorted prime wool. Very few yearlings were with the available supply from $16. to $17., and it be mentioned that the lambs down to culls continue to sell extremely slow from the way down to $8. Slaughter prices held steady from $5.
