SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — "We have water, lots of water," a state sanitary engineer said today of Illinois, somewhat dried up by drought.

"It's not always in the right places, that's all," continued Otto Hallden.

Hallden explained that 19 smaller communities are becoming parched because of strained supply systems.

Hallden added that some of these communities are chronic sufferers whenever rain and snow fall short for a long period.

Some Having Difficulty

A few of the larger communities in the state are reported having difficulty because levels of wells or water impoundments have fallen.

Hallden listed the towns having trouble as Galatia, Cave-In-Rock, Vienna, Sesser, Christopher, McLeansboro, Marissa, Beecher City, Fairmont, Weldon, Brownstown, Vandalia Penal Farm, Ashland, Modesto, Palmyra, Assumption, Blandinsville, Augusta and Yates City.

Galatia faces a critical situation, having slightly over a

Wheat Sale Will Be Told

WASHINGTON — Announcement is expected early this week of the sale of 26 million bushels of wheat to Russia. The exporter is believed to be Cargill, Inc., a major Minneapolis concern.

Some 7.84 million bushels of durum wheat are thought to be part of the deal.

It is known that the Agriculture Department has agreed to pay export subsidies averaging 78.5 cents a bushel on the durum wheat, and this may lead to criticism in some congressional quarters.

The subsidy compares with an average of 73.5 cents a bushel to be paid on about 13 million bushels of durum sold to Russia by the Continental Grain Co. of Minneapolis and New York. Smaller amounts of durum sold to other countries lately have ranged as low as 56 cents a bushel.

The department says a rise in durum prices accounts for 78.5 cent subsidy. But the fact the subsidies on Russian-bound wheat are running considerably higher than those on wheat sold elsewhere led to congressional complaints that the department is paying not only the difference between domestic and world prices but a part of the cost of transportation on American ships.

Director Defends Lower Public Aid Food Levels

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (U.P.) — In defense of lowered food standards for Illinois public aid recipients, Director Harold O. Swank called them neither oppressive nor liberal.

The Public Aid Department director Tuesday asserted they "can and do provide for a healthful and decent living."

The downward revisions of food and clothing allowances by the department last November were aimed at saving an estimated $900,000 a month.

March to Complain

Last Thursday, 200 recipients marched on the State of Illinois Building in Chicago to complain the allowance were too little.

"The food standards for public assistance recipients do not pretend to provide a comfortable standard of living," Swank said in a statement.

"They do not provide for expensive pre-mixed and frozen foods, expensive cold meats, cigarettes, candy, soft drinks, beer, comic books, movies and high interest rates on time payments."

Williams Funeral Friday in Clinton

WAYNESVILLE — William Franklin Williams, 79, died at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at John Warner Hospital in Clinton after a long illness.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Pullen-Boos Funeral Chapel in Clinton, with the Rev. Daniel Sullivan officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Visitation will be after 3 p.m. Thursday at the Funeral Chapel.

He was born Jan. 20, 1885, the son of Sam and Sarah Davis Williams. He married Gracye Hayen Sept. 5, 1905 in Clinton.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, William H., of Normal, and Charles S., of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; three daughters, Mrs. Sarah Nichols, of McLean; Mrs. Bernadine Robison, of Delavan; and Ethel Ferne, at home; three sisters, Mrs. Ada McCabe, Mrs. Ethel Smith, and Mrs. Nelli Bayer, all of Pekin; one brother, Ernest, of Pekin. One daughter preceded him in death.

He was a member of Waynesville Methodist church.

News Briefs

Dr. Madrigale McKeever, consulting psychologist at Lincoln College, participated in a multidisciplinary panel discussion being presented at the eighth Illinois Congress for Maternal and Infant Health now in session at St. Nicholas Hotel in Springfield. The topic for discussion is "Sex Education—Whose Responsibility". It was presented

Swank said some of the trouble relief families had in making ends meet was caused by mismanagement.

Not Its Responsibility

He added it was not the department's responsibility to raise allowances generally to make up for the shortcomings of some recipients.

He said a mother with three children ages 14, 9 and 5 receives a monthly food allowance of $73.05.

In addition, the family gets rental, health and utilities, plus $21.15 a month for clothing, $5 for household supplies, and $10.70 for incidental personal expenses.

Mismanagement occurs, he said, when food money in this minimum allowance is spent for items on which the allowance is not based. A pack of cigarettes a day takes nearly one-half of a child's monthly budget, he added.

Charges Denied

He denied allegations that the cut in the November standards caused more hardship in Chicago this winter than had been experienced in 20 years.

He said Chicago public aid families had more purchasing power in November 1963 than in September 1962.

Swank's statement was released shortly before he met in Chicago with five ministers, leaders of the "hunger march" last Thursday. The clergymen asked again for federal surplus food to supplement the diets of welfare recipients.

One of the ministers said after the meeting that Swank agreed to a program for federal food distribution if the Cook County Board of Commissioners would support the move.

Klink Reply To Chairman

Darrell E. Klink, of Lincoln, Republican candidate for state senator Friday replied to Ralph G. Colburn's announcement that H. G. (Skinny) Taylor, Macon County Republican county chairman, had endorsed him, (Colburn).

Klink said this was "no surprise" to him as he had been told that Taylor "probably would support a Macon county candidate."

Colburn, at a Wednesday press conference, said he is seeking the nomination over Klink on the ground that as a resident of populous Macon County he would have a better chance of being elected.

In answer to this, Klink said, "My campaign for the state senate will be based on my qualifications for the office. I do not believe candidates should be or are elected because of how they comb their hair or where they happen to live."

badly needed by Castro.

Earlier the Leyland Motor Co. of Britain sold $11 million worth of buses to Cuba.

There have been reports that the Cubans were negotiating in various Western European countries for a variety of industrial supplies which they badly need.

The aim of U.S. policy for several years has been to isolate Cuba from trade with the non-Communist nations and make Castro completely dependent on Soviet support. That support has been costing Moscow about one million dollars a day. The reasoning was that such pressures eventually would force radical changes inside Cuba and lead to the overthrow of the Communist Castro regime.

Officials concede that the policy will be punched full of holes unless the United States can get other countries to withhold the trade that Castro needs.

Compromise Measure for Tax Reduction Pondered

WASHINGTON (U) — Senate House conferees resume work today on the tax bill with the possibility that a compromise measure may be worked out by Wednesday.

This could mean the measure would be ready for President Johnson's signature by next week, opening the way for higher paychecks for the average taxpayers by mid-March.

The conferees are trying to iron out differences between the $11.2 billion tax cut passed by the House and the $11.9 billion reduction approved in the Senate.

Light Week Eyed
Although the pace in committees is expected to pick up, Congress generally planned another light week.

The controversial civil rights bill — cornerstone with the tax cut of the Johnson administration's legislative program — was expected to arrive at the Senate's door today. The 11-part omnibus measure received 290-130 approval from the House last week.

A House banking subcommittee starts hearings today on President Johnson's housing bill. Robert C. Weaver, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, was called as the first witness. A Senate subcommittee begins work on it Wednesday.

A House Labor subcommittee scheduled the start of hearings on another Johnson program — a plan to institute double time for overtime in certain industries, a penalty designed to encourage employment of more workers rather than the use of overtime labor.

Sec. Wirtz Leads Off

Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz was the leadoff witness for this measure.

Baseball and football magnates will be on hand today and Tuesday before a Senate Anti-trust subcommittee which is considering a professional sports anti-trust bill.

The Senate Rules Committee continues behind closed doors its probe into the doings of Bobby Baker, former secretary of the Senate majority.

On the House floor, the most important bill this week will be the $16.9 billion military procurement authorization bill coming up Thursday.

The Senate has nothing important scheduled for the floor and may be in recess several days this week.

Goldwater Steps Up His Campaign

WASHINGTON (U) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, buoyed by what he calls "a great groundswell" of support for his Republican presidential bid, is stepping up his campaign to head the GOP ticket.

The Arizona senator's top political lieutenants made this clear today after a Chicago strategy session that plotted Goldwater's course toward the Republican National Convention.

The conference Sunday attracted more than 90 Goldwater campaign leaders from 41 states. Goldwater, heading back to Washington after a week-long campaign tour in the West, stopped off to sell his campaign workers he is optimistic about his progress.

Counting on 450
The Arizona senator told newsmen he thinks about 450 Republican convention votes are locked up now, "with about another 125 practically sure."

A total of 655 votes will be needed to win the nomination.

"I think there's a great groundswell moving now," Goldwater said. He said his drive for the nomination is picking up the momentum it lost after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy last Nov. 22.

Goldwater's national campaign director, Denison Kitchel, said the six-week-old campaign is "really going into high gear."

Campaign sources listed these developments:

Aim At N. Hampshire
—The New York public relations firm of Fuller, Ross and Smith has been retained to sell the Goldwater image with television and advertising campaigns. Goldwater forces will aim their television ammunition first at New Hampshire, where the nation's first primary will be held March 10.

—The Goldwater forces are about to open a speakers' bureau to send the senator's top supporters across the nation carrying his message to key spots.

—Two new regional campaign directors have been named. Wayne Hood of Milwaukee will handle Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin. Richard Herman of Omaha will be in charge of Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Oklahoma.

Reports State-by-State

Goldwater gave reporters this state-by-state account of his prospects:

—The New Hampshire presidential primary "would be psychologically very important and we intend to win it." Goldwater goes back to New Hampshire Tuesday.

—"I feel very confident about California." Goldwater said his Western background and "the hundreds of speeches I have given in that state" make him the favorite over New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller there.

"I think I'm in good shape in Illinois, Indiana and the entire South."

—"I think I can get delegates in New York and we're going to try."

THEY WANT BARRY

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (U) —The California Young Republicans say Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater is the man they want for president of the United States.

And attorney John A. Gromala, 34, of Fortuna, is the new president of their 14,000-member group.

They made both choices Sunday.

The convention vote for Goldwater was 256½ for, 33½ against.

ife, Child Killing

Cochran has been charged with murder in connection with his wife's death. But no charges have been filed concerning the death of the children.

Police Chief Henry Schelling said Cochran told Reid that he choked his wife, then stabbed the three children with a kitchen knife.

Mrs. Cochran's body, clad in a negligee, was found Feb. 11 on the living room floor of her apartment. The children's pajama-clad bodies were found in the bath tub. Each child had been stabbed three times in the chest.

Police found the bodies after neighbors reported seeing no activity for several days.

Schelling said Cochran, who worked for the Topps Discount Store in Joliet, had left his wife seven weeks before the slayings.

Cochran first denied any connection with the deaths, but later told police he choked his wife after she told him she had killed the children.

Capt. Donald Boe, head of the detective division of the Joliet Police Department, said Cochran refused to take a lie detector test shortly after his arrest.

"I don't want to live," Boe quoted Cochran as saying.

Decatur's Young GOPs Hear Klink

Darrell E. Klink, 28th district Republican candidate for the state senate, told Decatur Young Republicans Thursday night that his qualifications for the office include his "knowledge of law, having studied and practiced law for nearly 15 years," his "work with state, county, and township problems during two terms as state's attorney," his background of having "worked with and promoted the interests of youth, labor, industry, agriculture and schools," and his "business experience."

The Lincoln attorney stated his basic political philosophy is to "encourage and allow individuals and groups to undertake all functions that they can capably perform and where government action is necessary, to meet the needs of the people at the level of government nearest the people because this results in the greatest protection of the rights and dignities of the individual."

State School on Job Testing List

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — "An intensive recruitment program to help fill more than 700 current job vacancies in the Illinois Department of Mental Health is announced by Miss Maude Myers, state personnel director. The program will emphasize the testing and immediate hiring of applicants at various mental institutions throughout the state.

Most urgently needed are applicants for professional classifications, Miss Myers said. She added further that a special appeal is being made to individuals with technical and professional training who may not have been previously available for employment because of family or other responsibilities. Former social workers, nurses, therapists, and teachers are especially being sought.

"I am certain that these persons will find the new Illinois mental health program both stimulating and challenging with a fine opportunity for further professional growth," Miss Myers said.

The tentative test schedule includes Lincoln State School, Feb. 28.

Workers at Caterpillar Back on Job

PEORIA, Ill. (U) — Union production workers of the Caterpillar Tractor Co. were back on the job today after a 23-day strike.

Settlement came Sunday night when members of Local 974 of the United Auto Workers, AFL-CIO, voted almost unanimously to accept a company offer described as a victory by local President Curt Martin. Workers on the graveyard shift reported to work Sunday night.

The strike was by about 14,000 workers in Caterpillar plants at East Peoria, Morton and Moline in the Peoria area. About 1,000 non-striking workers in Aurora and Decatur were subsequently laid off.

Opposed to Speed-Up

Local 974 struck after filing individual grievances against what the union called conditions forcing too fast a pace for workers, or a production speed-up.

At the time of the walkout midnight Jan. 31, a company official said the Union was attempting to "prevent improvement in production, tools, machines and standards."

Following the return-to-work vote Sunday, in which about 2,000 union members participated, Lester Whittaker, chairman of the union bargaining committee, said Caterpillar "agreed to go back to standards established before the speed-up started."

"Naturally Pleased"

Caterpillar President William Blackie said in a statement that the firm is "... naturally pleased that the strike is over and delighted to welcome back to work Monday all employees who are affected by it. The prospects for the year ahead are good and the strong demand for our product should assure steady employment."

Officials of the firm said they could not indicate how much the strike cost.

Whittaker indicated complete satisfaction with the settlement by the union's executive and bargaining committees.
