50 Millions For Alaska

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has named a special commission to plan rehabilitation of the earthquake-ravaged Alaskan economy and he will ask Congress for $50 million for emergency relief.

Both decisions were announced Wednesday by the White House after Johnson conferred with Alaska's senators, Democrats E. L. Bartlett and Ernest Gruening, and — by telephone — with William A. Egan, governor of the stricken state.

Youth Gets Six Months For Breakins

Terry L. Smith, 17, of Lincoln, was sentenced to six months at the Vandalia state penal institution Thursday afternoon by Associate Judge John McCullough for his part in the Feb. 22 breakin and theft at four Logan county business establishments.

Steve I. Luckhart, 17, of Lincoln, who with Smith had previously pleaded guilty to charges of theft and criminal damage to property, was granted one-year probation. A third youth participating in the crimes, Victor M. Thompson, 19, of Springfield, now in service in the U.S. Navy, was previously granted one-year probation after pleading guilty to the charge.

At Thursday's hearing Judge McCullough stated that the fact this was Luckhart's first offense, and a good report from the probation officer, were the determining factor in granting probation.

Smith, according to Judge McCullough, has had several previous brushes with the law, including a breakin at a restaurant in McLean county. The Judge also cited the fact that Smith used a false I.D. card to obtain liquor and was driving a car without an authorized license on the night of the breakins.

Edwin C. Mills, Sr., attorney for Smith, pleaded with the court that the defendant be given psychiatric care instead of imprisonment. He alleged that the youth is mentally sick, stating that he is now taking treatment from a psychiatrist.

In denying the plea, Judge McCullough stated that he was aware of all the facts long before he made his decision and stated "This must be a decision of the court, not of the doctors."

The six months term at Vandalia is a condition of a one-year probation given Smith.
Places robbed by the trio Feb. 22 include the Clark Service station in Lincoln, Krueger elevator, and Turner's and Bortner's service stations in Atlanta.

Elks of Lincoln are pondering a proposal to purchase the National Aquatic club property for the edge of Memorial Park for use by members of the fraternal order and their families. It is for sale and the Elks have an opportunity to obtain an option to buy.

In case the proposition meets with favor the swim site would be operated on somewhat the same plan as the golf course at the Elks Country club. The Aquatic club is adjacent to the Country club.

The third annual Jaycee Home Show this weekend offers quite an attraction to the kiddies with three of their top television favorites appearing. Saturday afternoon Miss Gwenn of Romper Room will visit the show. She will be joined later in the day by Salty Sam of Channel 43 of Peoria. Sunday, Captain Jinks, also of Channel 43, will be on hand to greet the youngsters.

may be organized in Lincoln, it is — An effective movement in America that is really doing something, to stem the tide of thinking among our youth that "the government owes us a living" and that is realistically educating the coming generation to the false concepts in the philosophies of socialism and communism.

Showers and warming weather are really causing the "green thumbs" to itch in Lincoln.

Easter (orchid) corsage purchased for his wife by a Lincoln man was forgotten — until the couple arrived at the church. So they hustled back home to pick up the flower.

Following worship at a local church one of the Knights Templar shook hands with a woman friend as she left by the front door. Scrutinizing him carefully, she rather hesitatingly shook hands and said, "But I don't know you." Evidently the plumed chapeau worn by the Sir Knight "disguised" his identity.

LAST IN SERIES: Anecdotes Reveal Brave General MacArthur Under

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In the final article of a four-part series, Pulitzer Prize-winner Reiman Morin recalls anecdotes in the life of Gen. Douglas MacArthur that illustrate his bravery under fire.)

By REIMAN MORIN
(AP Writer)

In July 1945, during the Allied attack on Balikpapan, the great Borneo oil center, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and an Australian officer were standing on a hill studying a terrain map.

Suddenly, a concealed Japanese machine gun chattered.

Bullets began kicking up dust around the spot where they stood and clipping leaves from the trees nearby.

Gen. on Starling

MacArthur continued to stare at the map. Moments later, he folded it carefully and handed it to the Australian officer.

As they walked down the hill, he said: "By the way, I think it would be a good idea for a patrol to take out that machine gun before someone gets hurt."

There are many such incidents in MacArthur's story.

If he knew the meaning of fear, or ever considered the possibility of death, he never showed it. He exposed himself to danger in battle like a reckless platoon leader, although as commander in chief, he was by no means "expendable."

Takes Look at Mop-up

After the Inchon landings in the Korean War, MacArthur took one of these "see 'em" trips. He said he wanted to look around Inchon and Wolmi-do, the island that sits in the harbor like a cork in a bottle. Fires still were burning on both, and occasionally there was gunfire as the Marines mopped up.

Adm. Arthur Struble, commander of the naval task force that supported the landings, ordered up his barge. MacArthur stepped into it with him. Several correspondents piled in behind them.

When they retreated, the North Koreans almost invariably left snipers behind. Using the Japanese trick of the Pacific war, the snipers hid in "spider fox holes"—that is, a hole covered with a trap door. Their special quarry was an American officer, especially a high ranker.

MacArthur asked to be taken close to the sea wall at Inchon, and then that the barge circle near Wolmi-do.

In Range of Fire

He came within easy range for enemy riflemen, or even for a grenade thrower.

On the destroyers riding at anchor in the harbor, gun crews waited tensely. They were ordered to "cover" the barge, but there was nothing to shoot at unless the Korean Reds fired first. And by that time it might be too late.

"We sure heaved a sigh of relief when that barge moved away from here," a young Navy lieutenant told me, later. "MacArthur must be nuts to take

STATE TEMPERATURES

Lesson in Windbreaks

Delbert Ford, Jr., Elkhart, set a farmstead windbreak Thursday, to give his home, yards and buildings protection from drifting snows and biting winter winds. The occasion was a Logan county demonstration arranged by Harold Brinkmeier, farm adviser with the Agricultural Extension Service.

Farm people who attended learned about effective windbreak design and the kinds of trees best suited to protection purposes. Three rows of Douglas Fir and Norway Spruce, small - needled evergreens most efficient for the purpose, were used with a spacing of 14 feet between rows and trees in the row.

With this arrangement only 22 trees are needed to plant a hundred feet of windbreak length. Norway spruce and Douglas Fir are recommended species because of their fairly dense foliage, favorable growth rates, superior mature height, and tendency toward reduced self-pruning.

Prof. W. E. Bulkley, forestry extension specialist from the University of Illinois, college of agriculture, Urbana, was in charge of the planting. He pointed out that most people planting windbreaks are much better satisfied with balled and burlapped stock than with cheaper, smaller trees.

He shows how to plant a tree to the same depth it was originally growing, how to firm the soil as it is replaced in the hole, how to water to settle the soil and how to mulch with straw cobs to an effective 4-inch depth.

He emphasized the importance of keeping poultry and livestock out of the windbreak area, commenting that the trees are "mighty expensive if they are not fed."

EMERGENCIES

Thursday's emergency surgery was treated at the local hospital. Included Kenneth Knowles, Milledale, for an injured left leg, and Oma Yeates of Lincoln, for a right foot injury.

Library Week Programs Set

This week is National Library Week. It is also the time for celebrating the 400th anniversary of the birth of Shakespeare. Librarian Claire Kresse, is putting forth an effort to observe both but no doubt with a bit more of the emphasis on Shakespeare.

Besides exhibits of books and periodicals of Shakespeare's time there will be a model of the old Globe Theater on display in the main reading room. Every evening there will be an illustrated lecture in the meeting room of the library.

Lectures will be given by Prof. William Stigall associate professor of humanities at Lincoln College. The public is invited to these lectures and there is no charge for admission. Tuesday night has been set aside for the Boy Scouts, but if there is available seats, others may attend.

These lectures are illustrated and are expected to be interesting and entertaining as Shakespeare's England was replete with episodes of historical interest.

Open Hearing on Prayers, Bible Reading in Schools

WASHINGTON (U) — A leader in the fight against the Supreme Court's school prayer decision said today "a fraternity of cynics" seeks to sever all national ties to religion.

Rep. Frank J. Becker, (R-N.Y.), sponsor of a proposed constitutional amendment that would permit prayers and Bible reading in public schools, urged its speedy adoption by Congress.

Becker was the first witness at House Judiciary Committee hearings which he has been demanding ever since the June 1963 its favor ever to hit Capitol Hill, said the issue raised is most important Congress face.

"The welfare and the future of our beloved America depend upon how we handle most dynamic tradition in national life — dependence on Almighty God," he said in prepared statement.

Those who pressed the issue that was finally resolved by Supreme Court, he said, are determined to "create a federal tribute to God in religion."

Need Change Of Addresses

Nearly 20 million Americans now receive social security benefit checks each month, announces H. J. Vasconcelles, district manager of the Springfield social security office. For many who get the major part of their income from social security, any delay in receipt of that check will cause a real hardship.

Each month, hundreds of social security checks are delayed, and hundreds of people suffer unnecessary worry and inconvenience simply because they have failed to report their new address. The Social Security Administration makes every effort to deliver checks promptly, but this is possible only when the correct address of a beneficiary is known at all times.

Keeping the Social Security Administration informed of changes in the address is the responsibility of each person receiving payments, Vasconcelles said.

SPRINGER SAYS— Don't Take Russians Lightly

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Coincidental with the 70th birthday of Soviet Premier Khrushchev many people are asking — has he mellowed?—has there been, or will there be, a change in Soviet foreign policy? asks Congressman William L. Springer (22nd district) in his "Report From Your Congressman."

Western experts in Washington and London feel that Khrushchev, rather than changing policy is, instead, marking time. Khrushchev is deeply embroiled at the present time in an ideological struggle with Red China. In addition, Khrushchev is having marked economic problems, particularly in the field of agriculture. With his problems, foreign and domestic, Khrushchev is finding that the relative relaxation of the West is helpful and useful.

Seen As Constant
Khrushchev's present actions

tempt to put missiles in Cuba in 1962.

To Be Remembered

It is well to remember, however, that even though Khrushchev seemingly is taking a "soft line" toward the West at the present time—that even though there is an apparent rift between Russian and Chinese communist lines—there has been no renunciation of communism's declared intention of "communizing" the world. "Peaceful coexistence" is one of communism's most effective tools—to be used when it seems to the Soviets that it is to their advantage is using it.

But experts here, in Washington on Soviet policy are agreed that there is no change in Russia's ultimate goal.

GUYMON, Okla. — Need a farm 37 feet wide and 1½ miles long? Or perhaps 20 feet wide and a half-mile long?

These odd-shaped pieces of land—as well as regular tracts—in three Oklahoma Panhandle counties will be auctioned next month, the Bureau of Land Management announces. The land, amounting to 4,032 acres, is valued at $70,405.

The federal government still holds the land because it was never taken by a homesteader, or because it was lost in old surveying errors.

Peter Gutierrez, chief of the land section of the U.S. Land Office, Santa Fe, N.M., said main value of the land is to adjacent property owners who will get preferential treatment in acquiring the property, if they desire.

Report on Library Week

(By Librarian Claire Kresse)

All one has to do to get the key is to have a library card and pronto the door is open. Those who had the key last week enjoyed a tete-a-tete with Shakespeare, some may have visited Viet Nam or some may have listened to some of Abe Lincoln's quaint stories.

Others may have wept with Tristan. Some frantic business man may have hurriedly gained information from Moody's Reports recently added to the library shelves.

All in all those who came to the library realized that the key to learning is books. Books to amuse you, inform you, stir you, inspire you, delight you and above all teach you, books that will stretch your mind or fill it with joy and new friends.

The librarian at this stressing the fact that the Public Library offers advantage that few libraries of its size offer. Lincoln is primarily agricultural settlement and most libraries in other charge from $5.00 to $10.00 year for individual card citizens outside the limits of the city. Lincoln charges $1.50 for a family card to members of the family.

During Library week people had a chance to visit Shakespeare and view the Globe Theatre and were impressed with the of Professor Stigall of College. And as this is the of Shakespeare's birth anniversary, Shakespeare lore will continue to be featured through the year.

Identify One Of Pair Who Fled Search

A warrant for the arrest of Charles Cheers, believed to be of Chicago, charging him with theft, has been issued by Magistrate John Turner. The complaint was signed by Harry Van Pelt, Elkharts. Cheers is believed to be one of two men who robbed Dan's Shell Service Station in Elkhart early Saturday and then escaped a police dragnet in the Broadwell area.

The two men stole tires, a battery and some ties from the service station and were discovered when leaving by Van Pelt and Elkhart Night Watchman Ted Hunter. Van Pelt and Hunter gave chase by auto until the robbers ran their car into a ditch three miles south of Lincoln and continued their flight on foot.

County, city and state police law officers were informed and combed the area all day Saturday without finding the two men.

A check on the car driven by the two men revealed it belonged to Nathan Boyd of Chicago and it is believed to have been taken without consent by Cheers who worked for Boyd.

Stocks Higher in Wednesday Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Motors, copper and oils were gainers in an irregularly higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading became heavy after a moderate pace at the start. Airlines and steels declined.

Movements of most key stocks went from fractions to about a point.

Texas Gulf Sulphur remained a speculative favorite, making another new high as it advanced more than 3.

The market was steady at the opening and widened its gains. The copper stocks reflected strength in copper commodity futures.

Airlines appeared to be in another profit taking phase. U. S. Steel, down more than a point, was in the news because of its reduction in some product prices to meet heavy import competition.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at 04.0 with industrials up .6, rails up .1 and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones Industrial average at noon was up .50 at 817.50.

General Motors, up nearly a point, was the largest gainer among the leading auto shares.
